Town centre plan agreed
Newham Council's Strategic Development Committee has granted planning permission for the redevelopment of Stratford Town Centre

The scheme will see the construction of a mixed use development that delivers an expected 587 homes with a mix of affordable housing including family-sized homes in two new residential buildings

There is also space for cafes and shops, a public open space and improved pedestrian routes and transport connections. Planning permission is subject to a Section 106 agreement, which is still being negotiated

Litterbugs pay the price
Five people prosecuted by Newham Council for environment crime offences have been collectively fined £610 by magistrates at Thames Court and also ordered to pay court costs totalling £600 and victim surcharges totalling £100

All have been told to pay up within 28 days. One person admitted the offence he faced while the other cases were proved in the absence of the defendants who failed to attend court. Offences included urinating in a public place, spitting, dumping furniture and littering by dropping cigarette butts and chicken bones.

Singing project boost
Stratford Circus arts centre has received funding from the National Foundation for Youth Music to deliver the New Young Voice Collective (NEWYVC) Mass Singing Programme, a three-year project involving more than 700 young people in Newham

National Foundation for Youth Music chief executive Matt Griffiths said: "We're delighted to support this ambitious singing project with 16 schools and hundreds of young people set to take part."

The NEWYVC summer concert takes place on 21 July at 7pm at Stratford Circus. To book call 0844 357 2625 or visit www.stratford-circus.com

Fostering a spirit of caring

Judy Goodridge, a foster carer for eight years, receives her award from Cllr Shah and council officials

Foster carers in Newham have been praised for the difference they make to children and young people in the borough

Newham Council welcomed carers and their guests to its offices in the Royal Docks to say thank you for the good work they have done. Certificates were awarded for long service and outstanding achievement. Three people who recently retired as foster carers were also praised

Newham currently has 126 foster carers caring for almost 150 children and young people. More carers are needed, especially for teenagers

Councillor Lakmini Shah, deputy mayoral adviser for children's safeguarding said: "We wanted to say thank you to our foster carers who do so much for children and young people. Fostering is emotionally rewarding and with all childcare costs covered and a fee, people should consider it as a career option."

Serving up free tennis

Stratford Park is urging residents to try tennis for free as part of the Lawn Tennis Association's Great British Tennis Weekend events

Newham Council has teamed up with the LTA to offer the sessions whether you've never picked up a racket before or haven't played for a while

The first weekend of the scheme took place at the park in West Ham Lane last month. Participants enjoyed cardio tennis, mini-tennis, coaching and family sessions. The next weekends take place in the park on 13 and 14 June and August 1 and 2

Councillor Ian Corbett, mayoral adviser for environment and leisure, attended the first weekend event. He said: "Tennis is a great sport with many health and fitness benefits and it is also a very enjoyable way to meet new people."

Tributes to former councillor

Tributes have been paid to former Newham councillor Alan Taylor who died on 20 May at the age of 73

Alan served on Newham Council between 2002 to 2006 and 2010 to 2014 representing Canning Town South as a Labour Party member. During his time on the council he served on the Local Development Committee, Policy Forums and Scrutiny Commissions.

Alan had served in the Army and worked as a lorry driver and a crane driver. His funeral takes place on 10 June. Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "He was a dedicated councillor who served with passion and commitment. Our thoughts are with his family at this sad time."

Custom House ward councillor Pat Holland added: 'Alan always stood up for the people of Canning Town and Custom House even before he was a councillor. He was a caring person and residents appreciated him for that."

Stadium licence is granted

A summer of sport will take place in the Olympic Stadium after Newham Council's Licensing Sub-committee granted a four-month licence for the venue.

Councillors approved a premises licence to allow the stadium to host Rugby World Cup 2015, the Morrisons Great Newham London Run, the IAAF Diamond League athletics and International rugby league. Under the licence the stadium has a maximum capacity of 60,000 for events between July and November.

Councillor Ian Corbett who chairs the committee said: "We have been reassured the events over the summer will be well managed and safely run. This licence ensures people can enjoy the stadium and the events while respecting nearby residents."

The licence expires on 22 November when work will resume to convert the stadium into the home of West Ham United. A new licence will be needed once work is complete.

Hospital trust is "inadequate"

Newham Council has said an announcement by the Care Quality Commission (CQC) that rates services provided by Barts Health NHS Trust at Newham University Hospital Trust as inadequate, is "very disappointing"

The CQC's hospital inspectors highlighted safety and leadership as areas for concern.

Councillor Clive Furness, mayoral advisor for adults and health, said, "The CQC's overall assessment clearly spells out that there are issues around the management of the Trust. These need to be urgently addressed and rectified.

"Residents should however be reassured that the report recognises the good services at Newham University Hospital, especially for those needing emergency care and those suffering from strokes, as well as the hard work of committed nurses, doctors and hospital staff.

"Working with the NHS Newham Clinical Commissioning Group and Barts Trust, we are committed to ensuring that changes are made quickly to ensure all members of the community benefit."

Protection where it's needed

It is good when we are able to show the excellent work the council does to a wider audience and last week I joined a BBC TV crew filming our private rented sector licensing team in action improving the lives of residents.

They were researching a news piece with Tessa Jowell, a potential Labour Party candidate next year in the race to become Mayor of London. The programme focused on the tough choices Londoners face when looking for a place to live.

> "We all need a home – and Newham Council want it to be a pleasant one."

As we visited private sector properties we encountered families crowded into single rooms, with strangers living in the room next door. One house had a single bathroom and a kitchen with reportedly up to 12 people living inside, and we spoke to a couple who were being threatened with eviction because their landlord was demanding more money.

By licensing privately rented properties Newham Council has the ability to hold landlords to task, to ensure that standards of accommodation are fit for the 21st Century, to stop the overcrowding of properties, to tackle rodent infestations, and to prevent unlawful evictions of tenants who desperately want to be a part of our community but are being pushed out by unscrupulous and greedy landlords.

Since the introduction of borough-wide licensing in January 2013 we have visited more than 2,000 properties, carried out more than 500 prosecutions and banned more than 25 landlords from operating in the borough. But Newham is just one borough, and these landlords will move on and carry on exploiting vulnerable tenants elsewhere.

Just before the General Election the Government introduced a new restriction on councils, preventing them from introducing licensing across a whole authority. This is unnecessarily restrictive and flies in the face of the devolution agenda MPs keep promoting these days.

But we don't advocate licensing for the sake of having a register of landlords. No, we licence to protect our residents and our enforcement team ensures that safety precautions are in place, that residents are legally protected with tenancy agreements and that neighbouring properties are not impacted by anti-social behaviour. We all need a home – and Newham Council want it to be a pleasant one.

Mayor's view

Community action is blooming great

The garden project that celebrates the meeting in 1931 of two of the most famous men in the world at that time is a brilliant example of community in action

The story of the meeting in Canning Town of film star Charlie Chaplin and Indian leader Mahatma Gandhi is an extraordinary and inspirational one, and to this point little known. It is also typical of life in Newham where people from all backgrounds come together

The aim of the Gandhi Chaplin Memorial Garden is to provide residents with the opportunity to meet, share ideas and build friendships. It is why through our Community Neighbourhood teams led by local councillors we can all play a part in shaping where we live

Together we can build a community where people feel a sense of belonging, where we can bring about change and where you can approach me and your local councillors with ideas and opportunities for improvement. I hope you enjoy the wonderful garden

Bowled over by kindness

With Ravi and Clirs Unmesh Desai and Lester Hudson

Sport is just one of the great ways we can give our children the best start in life – and around 100 Newham young people were this week expected to have an evening to remember

They were invited by England cricketer Ravi Bopara to attend his benefit match at Essex County Cricket Club and show off their talents by taking part in Kwik Cricket games on the pitch ahead of the main game. I am sure it was a tremendous occasion for all of them.

Ravi, a former East Ham schoolboy, was kind enough to arrange the visit with our Community Neighbourhood teams. He also donated the tickets so they could watch his benefit match

Since making his debut in 2002, Ravi has played his entire career for Essex. He is a local boy who has achieved fantastic success and we are very proud of him. From an early age at Brampton Manor School it was always obvious that he was destined for great things. Hopefully other budding cricketers from Newham will follow in his footsteps

Be bowled over by cricket this summer

Cricket in Newham is booming, with new facilities making it easier for more residents to take up the game, as well as helping local clubs to build on their growing success.

In March this year Newham College retained the East London 'Chance2Shine' Indoor Shield against sides from Hackney, Barking, Havering and Tower Hamlets

Newham Cricket Club continue to impress in the Essex County Cricket League and top county sides have forged links with the club to monitor their hot young prospects with a chance of turning professional

Top sides like Essex County Cricket Club are also looking to Newham to provide some of the cricketing stars of the future. In February, six promising spin bowlers from Newham Cricket Club were invited to a coaching session from a former England bowler in front of Essex Head Coach Paul Grayson

To encourage even more residents to pull on their whites, Newham Council has funded two brand new cricketing facilities unveiled in time for the summer Professional style cricketing nets were officially launched in Plashet Park on 27 May, while over in West Ham, a new pitch is available for hire from East London Community Sports Association (07780 185 205)

Cllr Forhad Hussain, community lead councillor for Plaistow, has championed the new nets at Plashet Park. He said "I am proud of the fantastic range of sporting facilities we have in our borough, and these new nets in Plashet Park offer another opportunity for people to get outdoors and active in Newham."

Wherever you live in Newham, it's easier than ever to give cricket a go

YOUNG MAYOR'S YOUTH OPPORTUNITY FUND

When Young Mayor Yaseen Bux was elected in October, his manifesto promised opportunities to develop their workplace, employment and life skills; provide them with the skills to be engaged citizens; and encourage them to lead more active and healthy lifestyles.

Launched on 2 June, the Youth Opportunity Fund supports Newham's residents aged 11 to 18 to deliver projects and activities based on the Young Mayor's manifesto. This provides a great opportunity for Newham's young residents to decide what kind of projects they want to see happen for other young people in their community – and to apply for the funding to make that happen.

Yaseen says: "This fund gives young people the chance to deliver projects that they are passionate about, and have a positive effect on people their own age."

The programme will award grants of up to £1,000 for young people who live, work or study in the borough. All projects should reflect the diversity of Newham, and encourage young residents to come together to share in a vibrant and active borough.

Yaseen said: "I am really excited to see what kind of ideas Newham's young people will come up with. I know a lot of people have really positive ideas about how we can develop better employment skills, get active and healthy, and become more engaged citizens."

When you apply, you'll have to show what you plan to do, why your project is needed and how you identified that need. You'll also need to give a breakdown of what you'll spend the money on. You can also submit a video link to support your application.

"It's a really special opportunity for the young people of Newham to really showcase their talents," says Yaseen.

Application forms are available online at www.newham.gov.uk/ymyof For more information, you can contact the Young Mayor's Team on 020 3373 8555 or email young.mayor@newham.gov.uk

Making all the running

There are few people better to give advice on running than Paula Radcliffe. Paula has held the world record for the women's marathon since 2003 and has won the London marathon three times. She has also enjoyed an impressive track career as a 10k runner, winning gold at the European Championships and silver at the World Championships.

As her professional running career draws towards a close, Paula is passionate about getting as many people running from an early age as possible. That's why she has invited six London women – including two representing Newham – to become ambassadors for the Morrisons Great Newham London Run, to encourage more people to pull on their trainers.

The Morrisons Great Newham London Run will take place in Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park (QEOP) and the Olympic Stadium on Sunday 19 July, and thousands have already signed up. The route for the 10k race will take runners past landmarks like Lee Valley VeloPark, the Aquatics Centre and the ArcelorMittal Orbit, before heading into the Stadium for a triumphant finish on the Olympic track.

Remembering how she first got started, Paula said: "I can't remember a time when I wasn't running. My Dad was a runner, so I used to go to meet him and give him drinks and snacks. I ran in school, village sports days, and Dad took me along to the athletics club as soon as I was old enough to join."

For Paula, it was crucial to have her father as a role model. She added: "It's really important that kids see their parents be active and running is one of those sports you can share as a family. It can be done at any level and at any distance in your local park."

Paula is also keen to get more women on the move, as some distance running events see male runners heavily outnumber their female counterparts. Paula said: "We're hoping to get the figures for women doing the Morrisons Great Newham London Run up to 50%. That's the goal, and it would be really special if we could hit that. Running has given me so much – not just my career, but self-confidence. There have been a lot of experiences I wouldn't have had otherwise, and I have met great people doing it."

For those who might be nervous of going for their first run, Paula advises people to start slow. Her advice is: "All you need is a decent pair of shoes. You can choose your level – do it once a week or do it every day, whatever works for you. You can really see the rewards. If there's a running club near you, get together with them. Or even if it's only a couple of friends, you can motivate each other to get out there and do it. Newham has lots of great places to go out and have a run so everyone can have a go."

While some of Paula's Great Runners have set themselves goals for a quick finish, Paula says the real highlight of the day for her will be the community atmosphere and enjoying the Olympic legacy. She said: "There are few other sports where you can stand on a start line with 35,000 and go through the same experience together. Everybody has good patches, and bad patches, and feels the support of the crowd. It will be a great chance to remember what a great job London did in 2012, and to re-live that together."

Places in the 10k run are still available at £32 and £8 in the family run. There is also a team relay for four or eight runners competing over a 26.2 mile marathon distance. For details visit www.greatrun.org/newham

Garden tribute to historic meeting

Few residents will have realised that a historic meeting of Indian leader Mahatma Gandhi and film star Charlie Chaplin took place in Canning Town in 1931 – until now that is.

Charlie Chaplin impersonator Diego Spano, children in Chaplin hats and Charlie's grand-daughter, actress Oona Chaplin, were on hand to launch a new community garden that serves as a lasting memorial to the famous visit.

The Gandhi Chaplin Memorial Garden sits between Chandler Avenue and Hayday Road, very close to where the two men met 84 years ago on 22 September in Beckton Road.

What was once waste land has been transformed into a new green space with flower beds planted by the community and mosaics designed by local artist Alan Read with help from pupils from Rokeby School.

One mosaic captures the character that made Chaplin so famous - The Tramp, against a background of a British flag. A tiled portrait of Gandhi, who was in London at the time for a conference on Indian independence, is set against an Indian flag embellished with a Hindu mandala design. The garden includes materials reused from Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park and flowers from the Chelsea Flower Show.

Bryan Collier, councillor for Canning Town South ward, spearheaded the campaign for the new garden. He said, "I am pleased that people can come and meet here and bring their children and do some gardening and planting. We need our history and it is surprising that so many people have been born and bred in Newham and don't know that these two great men met just along the road."

The opening of the garden was attended by Mayor Sir Robin Wales, Newham councillors, East Ham MP Stephen Timms, young people from Edith Kemson Nursery School and Children's Centre, Ravenscroft, Keir Hardie and Rokeby schools, and organisations that had contributed to creating the garden including Aspers Casino, Rosetta Arts Foundation, Groundwork London, Arts Council England and Canning Town Community First.

> "The aim of this garden is to provide residents with the opportunity to meet, share ideas, build friendships as well as inspire and influence the world."

Sir Robin said, "At the time Gandhi and Chaplin were the most famous men in the world so the story of their meeting here is an extraordinary and inspirational one. However, it is typical of life in Newham where people from all different backgrounds come together. The aim of this garden is to provide residents with the opportunity to meet, share ideas, build friendships as well as inspire and influence the world."

Gandhi and Chaplin met in the house of Dr Chuni Lal Katial, a friend of Gandhi's, close to the new garden. More than 2,000 residents turned out to catch a glimpse of the men and the story made the front pages of national newspapers and British Pathe film news. A report in the Daily Express said: "The British public arrived about 4.45pm. They began by breaking the railings by accident. They were perfectly good-humoured, but heavy on the brickwork. About two thousand happy enthusiasts tried to pat Mr Gandhi and Mr Chaplin on the back."

Oona Chaplin, Charlie's grand-daughter, known for her roles in BBC drama The Crimson Field and fantasy series Game of Thrones, said: "The garden is great. It's a beautiful little oasis and I think my grandfather would be very proud. I've seen the video of the two of them meeting. There were 2,000 people queuing up and desperate to get a glimpse. I would have given anything to have been a fly on the wall at this meeting of two of my biggest heroes. Their very mention invokes peace, hope, tenderness, wisdom, laughter and an impeccable sense of style. It doesn't matter what your background is, or what your cultural references are, people are really touched by these two men and their message."

> "People are really touched by these two men and their message"

A time capsule was buried which included artwork and letters from local children. Mark Hoda, chairman of the trustees of the Gandhi Foundation, welcomed the garden. He said: "We hope it will be a focal point for the community activities inspired by Gandhi's life and message."

The choir had to pass a tough audition process led by the Youth Sport Trust charity. They impressed judges with a rendition of He Lives in You from The Lion King musical.

The choir has 50 members aged between 11 and 18. Year 11 student Princess Olowogboye has been performing for five years. She said: "[illegible] Angela's [illegible]

The welcome ceremony for New Zealand, which will include the formal presentation of official tournament caps and medals to players and officials, will be at a yet to be announced famous London landmark. The choir will perform World in Union, the official anthem of Rugby World Cup 2015.

Year 8 pupil Isabella Clawson-Malla has been singing with the choir for 18 months and is looking forward to welcoming the All Blacks. She said: "I think it is great for [illegible] and show [illegible] Sir Bobbie Head [illegible] New Zealand [illegible] London [illegible] New [illegible] commitment to helping to deliver [illegible] Rugby World Cup 2015."

Top cop fits The Bill

Borough Commander Tony Nash is Newham's highest ranking police officer. He is responsible for more than 900 officers, special constables and police community support officers. Having previously worked in a number of other boroughs, and for the Metropolitan Police's Trident Gang Crime Command, he came to Newham a year ago.

As Newham's top officer, Chief Superintendent Nash has been tasked by policing and crime chiefs to deliver the 20/20/20 challenge, a four-year programme that ends next year. He explained: "It stands for cutting crime by 20%, boosting public confidence in the police by 20% and cutting costs by 20%."

Almost all types of crime in the area are down, despite budget cuts, which Tony puts down to intelligent policing. He said: "When you've got budget cuts, you have to be effective. To take one example: burglary is down 32.1% since 2012, which is 1,127 fewer victims. We use evidence-based policing, using research that tells us offenders tend to work in quite small areas. Applying that logic, we do what's called cocooning. When a burglary happens, our neighbourhood officers knock on doors telling people there's been a burglary in the area, how it happened, and advising them how to look at their security. We also have a high visibility patrol over the next 72 hours within that area. If you look where it's enforced, we get reductions in crime."

Tony also paid tribute to the police's work with Newham Council. He said: "A lot of police work relates to issues that affect people's environment, like litter and anti-social behaviour. We work with the council on this and our relationship while I have been Borough Commander has been fantastic."

Another challenge for the police is building confidence. Tony is encouraging more residents to have their say on policing in their area. For the purposes of policing Newham is divided into 21 wards, each with a Safer Neighbourhood Team. The officers in a Safer Neighbourhood team spend most of their time patrolling that neighbourhood, meeting the community and dealing with issues identified locally.

Their priorities are set at regular meetings with a ward panel, which residents are able to join. Tony said: "I urge people to get involved with their ward panel and raise their concerns so we can do our best to deal with them. We especially need young people to have their say. Newham is predicted to be the first borough where more than 50% of the population will be under 25 and it is difficult when such a big section of the population aren't represented on ward panels."

As well as being a young borough, Newham is also undergoing huge physical regeneration. A key priority for Newham's police is to prepare for this. In Stratford, for instance, the police are working to anticipate how development might affect residents. Tony said: "We've got two museums, a theatre, Crossrail, a 24-hour Tube service, West Ham United moving into the Olympic Stadium, three universities, new hotels, 3,000 new student lets and the Financial Conduct Authority all moving in or expanding here. This will bring employment and opportunity and challenges as well.

> "There's a progressive, intelligent look to the future here that hopefully I will continue to be part of"

"The Royal Docks is seeing a new Asian Business Park being built, which will affect the environment there. I can see the whole borough having changes at various levels and we have to predict what the potential impact will be from a crime and disorder perspective."

Tony believes however that Newham is ready to meet the challenge. He said: "Newham as a local authority is ahead of the curve in many aspects. A lot of other boroughs will look to Newham. If you look at the licensing of private landlords, that's something Newham started. There's a progressive, intelligent look to the future here that hopefully I will continue to be part of."

Look after your health during Ramadan

This summer, thousands of Muslims in Newham will be fasting for Ramadan. Newham Council and the NHS are advising residents to take care of their health and seek advice on how to manage their medication if fasting.

Some health risks are associated with fasting, especially for women who are pregnant and people with a health condition such as diabetes, high blood pressure or any condition that requires regular medication. In these cases fasting could cause complications.

Newham GP, Dr Shahzada Khan advises "The Qur'an is clear that people who have a medical condition that makes fasting damaging to their health are exempt from fasting.

"People with diabetes can often still fast if their condition is well controlled, but should always seek advice from their GP beforehand. This is especially the case if you are diabetic and are using insulin where the risks during fasting are very high. It is essential that you monitor your blood glucose during Ramadan."

Other ways to stay healthy this Ramadan include maintaining a healthy diet. Dr Khan said "Fasts can improve a person's health, or worsen it – it depends what you eat in the non-fasting hours. A balanced diet with fewer calories than normal will keep a person healthy. It should be simple and similar to your daily diet. Avoid high fat or sugar content during the hour immediately after breaking the fast each day. That means limiting fried or sweet food, as well as large portions." Dr Khan also advises "Smoking is not permitted during fasting hours, so if you are a smoker, why not use Ramadan as an opportunity to quit for good?"

This year Ramadan occurs during June and July when days are longer and hotter, so there is an additional risk of dehydration. Anyone fasting should ensure they drink plenty of water before and after fasting to avoid the risk of dehydration. Dr Khan says "People who are fasting often suffer from headaches or constipation as a result of not drinking enough water. Fasting Muslims that feel unwell or are in pain should call the Newham out of hours GP service on 020 7511 8880 for advice straight away."

50 Years of Newham

Don't let litterbugs rubbish Newham

Newham Council takes anti-social behaviour very seriously. Fly-tipping and littering are criminal offences and every month we take people to court who have littered, dumped or made a mess in the borough.

Last month at Thames Magistrates Court, a 48 year old man was prosecuted by the council for dumping dangerous waste on an East Ham street. He was handed a 16 week jail term, suspended for 18 months, and ordered to complete 200 hours community services. He was also ordered to pay £3,101 in costs, as well as a £80 victim surcharge.

Last year we issued more than 3,300 Fixed Penalty Notices (FPNs) to residents and visitors for a range of environment crime offences, including fly-tipping and fly-posting, waste in front gardens, littering and illegal street trading. Untortunately, there are offenders who believe they're above the law and fail to pay their fines.

The pictures on this page show people who are responsible for anti-social behaviour offences. If you recognise anyone please call 020 3373 4479 and quote the reference number beside the picture.

To the people pictured here, our message is simple – we will use every power at our disposal to track you down and prosecute you, including publishing a photograph of you if we need to establish your true identity. Contact us now to pay your fixed penalty notice, as you may be ordered to pay a far higher price by the courts when you are prosecuted.

Local school on pointe

Students from a Plaistow secondary school performed alongside students from The Royal Ballet School in a joint performance at Stratford Circus.

The performance, titled aDvANCE, was the culmination of a five-month project between Years 9 and 10 students from Lister Community School, and Year 10 students from The Royal Ballet School.

The show was well attended, and notable guests included West Ham MP Lyn Brown. She said: "I am grateful to be invited to this magical performance. The young people are clearly very talented and a delight to watch."

Feedback from students was very positive, and Angelo, a Year 9 pupil, said: "What I have enjoyed the most about this project has been engaging with new friends and developing my technique."
